

Developing leaders for the Library and Information Sector

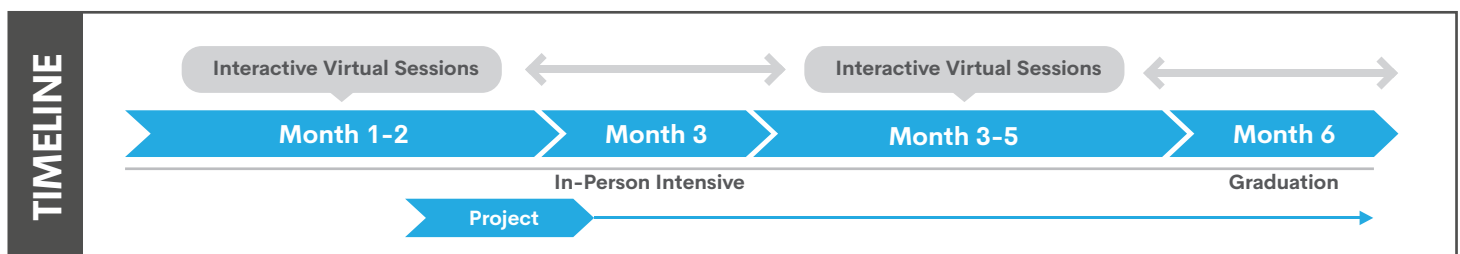

Taking Careers to Next from Now

Curious about LLEAD?

LLEAD is the only leadership and management development program designed specifically for employees across the library and information sector who have responsibility for others—whether in IT, HR, Finance, Services, or other areas. Participants may be team leads, supervisors, managers, or preparing to step into one of those roles. This unique six-month learning experience equips them with skills, tools, and frameworks needed to confidently navigate the evolving landscape of the library and information field—regardless of their functional area.

Why Invest in LLEAD?

The LLEAD curriculum is built for today—and tomorrow. Continuously updated to reflect local realities, global trends, and emerging technologies, it equips your staff with the tools and capabilities needed to shape and nurture healthy work environments. Participants don't just learn—they apply. Through immersive learning, guidance from experienced sector leaders, and confidential peer dialogue, LLEAD students strengthen their judgment, influencing skills, and confidence to lead positive change.

Having sent two employees to previous LLEADs, we didn't hesitate to send someone to LLEAD8. LLEAD's six months of leadership training fosters a genuine transformation in participants. We've seen the benefits for those new to management and those with experience seeking new approaches and ways of thinking.

University Librarian

And LLEAD supports you—the participant's manager—too

You'll receive coaching to help guide your employee in applying what they're learning directly to their role. This not only accelerates their development, it delivers real-time value back to your organization.

Organizational Project

Participants are expected to lead a project addressing an issue or initiative for your organization.

Why? A project is an ideal way for students to apply and practice the tools and concepts being learned. They have your support as the project sponsor as well as the guidance of highly experienced faculty who are practitioners throughout the sector. And, no, the project does not have to be completed during LLEAD.

Fees

LLEAD9 is $6,399CAD until August 28, 2025;
$6,849CAD as of August 29.

Tuition covers all classes and materials, as well as meals and shared accommodation at the Intensive. Single accommodation please add $599CAD.

Dates, Bursaries, Fellowships and details are @ www.libraryleadership.org

Applications

Registration is limited to 20 participants

The application has 4 parts

1. Application Letter
2. Resume
3. 2 Letters of Support
 - one from a senior leader in your organization or profession and
 - one from the direct manager
4. Bursary or Fellowship application (if applicable)

Examples of Projects Undertaken by LLEAD Students

- ✓ Virtual training and learning site for a large library's employee development program, from on boarding new employees to tech training and onto leadership development options
- ✓ Comprehensive needs assessment for an additional library facility identifying potential locations, service delivery model, communication plan, etc.
- ✓ Proposal for the creation of a new division at a research university library to integrate research data management, digital publishing, data services, digital repositories, and preservation
- ✓ Report on and recommendations for a government IM department's program performance measures and metrics

Academic and public libraries spend an average of 1.26%
of total payroll on staff development and training.
It's not enough.

(Source: ALA)

LEARN MORE at
www.libraryleadership.org | info@libraryleadership.org

