

Developing leaders for the Library and Information Sector

Take Your Career to Next from Now

Why LLEAD

LLEAD is the ONLY leadership program for employees in any supervisory role within academic, public and enterprise libraries and information services. Blending experiential and strengths-based learning, this unique development institute equips leaders and managers with skills, tools and frameworks to successfully navigate the ever-changing library and information sphere. The curriculum - constantly updated in response to local, global and technology factors - equips managers and leaders to work with stakeholders and industry to move the sector to next from now. Your learning is supported by experienced, high-performing guides and confidential peer discussions.

LLEAD enables you to:

- Grow your career with skills to move ahead into more senior positions
- Develop and nurture high-performing teams
- Study and apply frameworks to address today's complex problems
- Build connections for life
- Gain insights from people in various roles in different library types

TIMELINE

"LLEAD was a pivotal turning point in my library career. The Loon Lake Intensive served as a chance to start the process of self-awareness critical to my growth as a leader, while having the chance to bond with my fellow LLEAD participants and mentors, all of whom have become a trusted circle of support since well after the program ended." - 2016 LLEAD Graduate

WHY A PROJECT?

You are encouraged to lead a project that addresses a need or issue for your organization or for the sector.

Why? A project is an ideal way for you to apply and practice the tools and concepts you are learning in LLEAD - with the support of LLEAD's highly experienced, wonderful learning guides.

Your project should be sponsored by your manager or a sector leader. And, no, you aren't expected to complete the project during LLEAD. Phew!
